From Using Popular Children's Books to Explore Ethical Dilemmas, Truth Telling and Lots in Between! *A unique and entertaining day of ethics!

Ethics, ethics and more ethics are in store for you in these engaging, entertaining and thought- provoking presentations. Jason Lesandrini, Medical Ethicist; Assistant Vice President of Ethics, Advance Care Planning and Spiritual Health at a major Health System in Georgia and Adjunct Faculty at Mercer University will begin by reviewing critical lessons we can learn from WhoVille Hospital (source: Dr. Seuss) regarding communication problems. From there, Mr. Lesandrini will review ethical issues around Truth Telling and then complexity of patient provider requests. Finally, he will close out the day by looking at Moral Distress and "Ethics Narrative Therapy" – using writing as a practical solution to a challenging ethical problem. Mr. Lesandrini will guide us through a discussion of how we can use narratives to work through some of the ethical dilemmas we face. After attending this event, you will leave refreshed with a new perspective on ethics.
